Dear Dean Van Gorder:

This is to confirm the conversation on 31 October between Dr. Hugh T. Cunningham, Director of Training, and a member of your staff with regard to the Central Intelligence Agency's participation in the Advanced Management Program during 1970.

We regret that it will again be necessary for the Agency to reduce its participation in the regular sessions of the AMP; however, we are pleased that you will be able to accommodate Mr. [redacted] in the Special Summer Session, 1970-71, and Mr. [redacted] in the Fall 1970 Session. Should a space become available in the Spring session, we are prepared to nominate a well-qualified candidate who, we believe, should be able to make a contribution to the Program.

When the Summer Session curriculum becomes available, please forward a copy of it to our Director of Training.

Sincerely,

SIGNED R. L. Bannerman

Dear Van:

It was good seeing you again and having the opportunity to meet with the AMP group. I also enjoyed my visit with the PMD people and hope you will pass along my appreciation to Woody Flowers.

I have passed the information on the summer AMP offering along to Bob Bannerman, our Deputy Director for Support and a former member of the AMP. Bob is responsible, along with other things, for training policy and implementation for the Agency, and he will be in touch with you shortly concerning this new program.

Again, my thanks for an interesting and informative session.

Personal regards,

MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

SUBJECT: Visit to Harvard University

1. On Friday, 3 October, and Saturday, 4 October, I visited Harvard University Graduate School of Business Administration Advanced Management Program (AMP) and the Program for Management Development (PMD). I attended classes and conferred with faculty and administrative officials of both programs. I also took the opportunity to follow up with Dean Van Gorder (AMP) his previous agreement to accept candidates from CIA for all AMP offerings.

2. Dean Van Gorder explained that the circumstances causing Harvard to defer acceptance of the Agency candidate last February were unfortunate and that he hoped to have an Agency slot for all future AMP courses, including the new summer offerings -- two six-week sessions extending into each summer. He asked that the Agency nominate a candidate for the summer session without prejudice to our participation in the regular fall and spring sessions. I told him I would discuss this matter with the Executive Director and the Director of Training and respond shortly. [Note: Agency nominees for AMP clearly should be scheduled for or involved in key management assignments in the Agency and include division and office heads, Assistant Deputy Directors, etc. If we relax on the level of candidates, I expect we will lose our position with HBS.]

3. I also spent an hour with Dean Woodford Flowers, Administrative Director of the PMD program in which the Agency has two participants. Flowers was highly complimentary of Agency people and expressed the hope that we would provide two for each PMD session. He went into great depth outlining the course coverage and I am convinced the Agency would do well to have our on-coming executives enrolled in all PMD offerings.

4. I found our participants fully involved and constructively contributing to both courses. I took the occasion to invite representatives of the PMD to spend a weekend at my place in New Hampshire which provided an informal atmosphere in which to respond to questions about Agency work. I believe the session was productive.

5. I also again visited the M.I. T. program and was impressed that this offering is equal to or superior for selected S&T candidates to the Harvard offering for AMPs. I suggest we may wish to send S&T candidates to the M.I. T. course rather than Harvard.
